A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on August 25, 2004 has been entered.

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 5-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hill '964.

Hill suggests the instantly claimed process of pulverizing alumina in a vibratory mill or attritor mill, ie. stirring mill, in an air atmosphere to form a powder of the alumina. See example II and cols. 3,4. Absent a showing of criticality, the amount of air and alumina to add would appear to be an optimization well within the level of skill of one of ordinary skill in the art.

Claims 5,6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hikake '333 or Oshiro '707 or Mandle '648.

Hikake or Oshiro or Mandle each suggest the instantly claimed process of continuously introducing an inorganic oxide into a dry pulverizer such as a jet mill and air to pulverize the oxide into a powder and then discharging the pulverized oxide. See cols. 4,5,6 of Hikake; cols. 5,7 of Oshiro; cols. 2,3 of Mandle. Absent a showing of criticality, the amount of air and alumina to add would appear to be an optimization well within the level of skill of one of ordinary skill in the art.

Applicant's arguments filed August 25, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Hill teaches milling alumina in a batch wise process and that Hill does not teach the continuous introduction of raw materials nor the continuous discharge of pulverized inorganic oxide.

However continuous operation of a taught batch process is well within the level of skill of one of ordinary skill in the art, In re Dilnot 138 USPQ 248.

Applicant's arguments over claims 9,10 are persuasive.
